NOTEWORTHY CONFESSIONS.

Mr. Honace Gunnly denies that he was in any way privy to the Harper's Ferry invasion, but, in connection with this denial, makes some confessions which are noteworthy. In the first place let us remark that many of the black republican prints have sought to cast discredit Vis upon the statement of Col. FOREES, The confessions of Mr. GREELY substantially sustain that part of Col. Foress' statement relating to GREELEV, which fact is corroborative of the truth of the whole part of the year 1856-which means two or three months prior to the Presidential tond. election of that year-he was "apprised that Formes was going out to Kansas to 'help the free State men, then threatened with annihilation by border-ruffians of Missouri, backed by Federal function 'aries and troops," and "I gave him $20 'as he was starting; others gave him lar-'ger sums; how much in all I do not know but I think his total receipts from friend of his resolve cannot have fallen below 43700.º

We have here the fact established tha Fonexs went eat to Kansas under the pay of the eastern black republicans an that he went out to fight the Federa treops. He started with a purse of seven hundred dollars. His services must have been deemed valuable. Why were they deemed valuable? Because he had written a book on guerrilla warfare, and was believed to possess peculiar qualifications for conducting that sort of warfare which the black republican leaders were waging in Kansas. He and old Brown were to act in conjunction. They were brought together by one of the editors of the New York Independent, a professed religious paper, with a view to the Kansas arrangement which was afterwards perfect, in pursuance of which both Brown and Formes did go to Kansas and lid carry on the guerrilla warfare egainst the Federal troops for which they were supposed to be so well quali-
